

CORPORATE TRAINING

Meeting the employee specific training need

At SineWave, we understand that qualified and experienced people are an organization's vital assets. It is their skills, expertise and potential that can take the organization to heights it may never have dreamed of in this competitive business market.

We also understand the uniqueness of every organization in terms of its culture, potential, skills and expertise.

SineWave provides training consultancy, management training and professional development services tailored to meet an organization's specific and unique requirements.

Our team of highly qualified Training & Development professionals will work with you to identify your needs, customize training modules and deliver. The team's focus is on the transfer of specific knowledge and skills through lectures, group discussion, exercises and application workshops considering live work experiences and solutions directly linked to day-to-day business challenges and demands.

We guarantee personalized training services that will exceed your expectations, timescales and budget.

Induction Training Programs

SineWave now provides Induction Training services to effectively manage your entire Induction process carried out by our professional HR Training consultants. We can also put together an induction training policy and procedure for your new employees.
